

The Letters of Tessie and Joe

DEAR TESSIE

I'm having a pretty bum week, as everybody in this territory I'm going through has tried. Daisy Kanned Soups to their sorrow. However, I have ways of keeping my spirits up. One way is by reading about the salaries the different movie stars get. Another way is by following up the political speeches with the candidates showing up each other's character every day and thinking how much better I must be than either of those famous men. Nobody ever made such remarks about me in public, which all goes to show that the oyster is one of the wisest of birds, because the less you let people know, you the less they will be willing to take time to listen while somebody pans you.

I don't know how I'll vote this election, not that I'm probably worrying the candidates any. They're so busy denying each other's results that by some of their speeches you might think they were trying to talk themselves out of jail instead of into the White House. People who stand in front of white houses ought to throw mud, that's my motto. But all jokes aside, I'd rather be a voter than a president, because whereas my responsibility ends on election day, the president's just begins. The consequences are all his you might say.

Of course it's a great honor and a grand surprise to be elected president of your country, and if the baby grows up and shows a talent for being president I'd be the last one to begrudge it to him, but still and at the same time how do you suppose I'd feel if I allowed myself to be made president and then found out it was really true that the war wasn't over? Why, I'd feel like a man that married for a home and then discovered his wife was a widow with six assorted children. Nothing doing, Tessie, you'll have to excuse me.

Well, so long, old better half.

JOE.

(In her answer Tessie divulges why it would embarrass her to be a President's wife.)

Three Ways to Be Charmingly Suited

By ELOISE.
October is the still month. It is a bit too early for the winter coat and it is usually too late for the light-weight spring and summer suits and coats. Hence the fall and winter suit gets its best wear in October and early November. Suits have a tendency to be a little dressier this season, although there are the usual number of tailored suits for the tailored woman. But trimming is one of the most popular features of the new suits and the popular materials are tricotines, chambrises, a new fabric, velvet, de laine, duvetin and other soft finished fabrics and, of course, rich velvets and velours.

Here are three suits which should satisfy almost any taste. At the left is the semi-dress or fashion suit, which is often the choice of the very feminine business woman, the school girl or the home woman. At the right is the strictly tailored suit for the tailored woman, while in the center is a stunning dressy suit of black velvet showing an unusual coat.

Of course one could use all three of these suits upon different occasions, but even if your budget allows only one suit surely any one of the 30 models answer all purposes.

Beaver collar and pocket tabs trim the suit at the left. A large collar of black fox trims the one in the center, while the tailored suit naturally is left untrifled save for a few buttons on the sleeves. A fur neckpiece, however, is quite appropriate for wear with the tailored model.

From this can be obtained practically anything that can be produced through the skill of women's hands. This includes the repair of valuable furs, the restoration of antique beads, bags, illuminated verses, original dinner cards and hand-painted furniture.

From a small beginning in 1876 the exchange has grown until today its consignors list numbers 1,300 John Seely Ward is president of the exchange, and Mrs. William G. Cheate, honorary president.

JOE LYONS IS IN BAD.
PICKNICK DINNER ENDS IN SCRAP BETWEEN RIVALS
(Weezy's Diary, Thursday, Sept. 23.)

It's late and I ought to be tired, but I can't go to bed. Of all the mean tricks ever played I think that Joe Lyons worked about the meanest on me.

When I went to school this morning I looked up ahead and what do you think I saw? Joe Lyons was standing on the steps trying to make a date with that horrid actress. She shook her head. I ducked.

The poor slump! Just before the bell rang he came up and asked me. Maybe I didn't give him a black look. I told him to ask me again at noon. He did.

But that picnic. It was real excitement. All of us girls were dying to see whether Charbel, the Queen, would come with Peanut or with Pipe-Dream. Well, she came with Pipe-Dream. Peanut, having once had a taste of fast life, was not to be backed out. He was there too, with prim Vanev Waters.

Believe me, that picnic played all her charms. She managed it so that at the table, she sat between Peanut and Pipe-Dream. Then she divided her attention half and half.

It was a comical. First Peanut would cast a darkened look at Pipe-Dream, and then Pipe-Dream would shoot a wicked stare at Peanut. Neither boy talked very much even to the queen, and neither would take to anyone else at all.

When the supper was over we decided we would have a game of old-fashioned prisoner's base. All the boys would try to catch Charbel. I saw Peanut getting under and under. There was a little mixture and first thing we knew there was Pipe-Dream sprawled on the ground.

"You tripped me," he shouted, and made a dash for it. Peanut dodged and Pipe-Dream tripped over his leg again. Then even slow Pipe-Dream began to get riled. He picked up a big stick, hurled it at Peanut, and Peanut dodged. The stick went flying through the air and almost hit the queen. Several of them jumped on Pipe-Dream. There was a sort of excitement. But the queen liked it. She let Pipe-Dream take her home, and Peanut went back on the street with Vanev.

Tackle Is Rightly Named
No man on the football team is more truly named to suit his work than the tackle.

When tackles were first discovered they were expected to do the heavy work of tackling. They still have the same job.

That part of the line is the part through which attacks are most often driven. They are the necks men to a play who have freedom of action.

The good tackle must first of all have tackling ability. He must be fearless and not too gentle. He must be a quick, shifty, heady, speedy fighter.

The more weight he has with these characteristics the better.

RISKS SELF TRYING TO MAKE BRUTAL ITALIAN CEASE BEATING HORSE

James Horn of Brooklyn, N. Y., at the risk of punishment from a brutal Italian, recently tried to stop him from beating his horse.

This act, requiring even a finer type of bravery than the rescuing of a drowning friend, has been widely commented on in young Horn's home city.

Mrs. Annie Gibson Allis says: "Keep on in your good work, James Horn, and teach friends to follow your example."

"This summer I have seen hundreds of boys who roam the streets in large gangs in the neighborhood of parks, and in almost all cases I have noticed that their chief amusement lies in stoning birds and squirrels, catching frogs and twirling them around with strings that so their legs, catching butterflies only to destroy them, and doing every other sort of act of destruction and cruelty."

"We feel sure that the right kind of a mother has trained James Horn to be such a splendid exception to this rule. We may also feel sure that he will be the right kind of a man."

GIRLHOOD STORIES OF FAMOUS WOMEN

Helen Keller
Bang! Bang! Impatient fists pounded on the door and made the whole room shake.

Little Helen, in a fit of rage, had locked herself in the pantry, where she had to stay for three hours before the servant came home and let her out.

Helen shrieked for joy when she felt the jar of the pounding. She was seven years old and had never been disciplined. But how could a mother or father punish a child who could neither hear, speak or see?

Unable to manage their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Keller engaged a teacher from the blind institute. It was through the patient perseverance of this lady that Helen learned to read, speak and understand.

Mrs. Keller (born 1830) lectures in different cities in America. She tells of her experience and what can be done to make life more enjoyable for the deaf, dumb and blind.

Samsons Beaten in Second of Series by Brewers, 6-4

Breaks Against Locals; Bad Grounds Make Good, Snappy Game Impossible

Madame Fortune was fickle at Evansville Friday, finally accepting the advances of the Milwaukee Brewers and handing the Samson Tractors a 6-4 defeat. The Old Dame must have been bribed. She gave the breaks to the Barnstormers and the skids to the Sammys.

The four-game series now stands one and one. The teams play here at the fair grounds at 2:30 this afternoon with "Speeder" Dumont on the mound for the locals and again Sunday when Lathrop, winner of 21 games this season, will twirl the ball.

Big crowds are expected at both games to bid farewell to the Samson Tractors, who will leave for the big league on Sunday. The Milwaukee Brewers will start for the Samson Tractor company.

Grounding in Tim Slape. There isn't a great deal to say about Friday's game. Played on bad grounds it was just such a sort of affair that a rough defeat and a barnstorming defeat. Very seldom do grounds or anything else ring true once the apple struck "terrible" home.

Wooten was sent into the box to do the honoring for Perring's crew. It was Jack's off day. Perhaps it had not enough rest, after holding the Milwaukee for a week. Wednesday was in great style. Whatever it was he made two wild pitches that proved ineffectual. Three that were not, but were directly responsible for runs. Two of the free bats to first which he issued were turned into counters. A majority of the Milwaukee were fast and the more unfortunate part was that they came at opportune times for the Cream City aggregation.

Breaks against Samson. This doesn't mean that the Sammys were not hitting. They touched Lutzke for seven singles. They were entered into the scoring of two of the Samson runs, hits brought in the other two.

Gregory relieved Wooten in the eighth. He gave a base on balls, was touched for a single and saw one run cross the platter.

A double, a steal and a single scored at the Brewers' first run in the second. They followed it with another in the same frame made on a single, a wild pitch, a passed ball and a single. The Milwaukee were then hit by a single and a sacrifice had gone before.

In the fourth, Milwaukee scored on a single, a base on balls, a fielder's choice, which by the way caught "Splitter" Barbeau at the plate—got a wild pitch. But in the sixth, Jack's crew tied the score when Perring drew a base on balls, went to second on the same kind of compliment to Barbeau, and carried all the way home on Shook's infield hit.

Two More for Brewers. Although Schwind tried to make up for beating Kores' batter in the seventh by hitting to base who threw Bues out at home, Kores scored when Barbeau singled. Holland made a bad throw and Ulrich doubled, also scoring "Jap."

Samson tried a rally in the eighth and scored a run when Deale singled, was pushed to third by Jack's crew, took to short right and came home while Milwaukee was seeking to nab "Bumle" stealing second. Adrian sacrificed Holland to third where he remained stranded.

Holland hits Double. Just as it was not satisfied with a one run lead the Brewers edged out sixth on a single. The eighth "Bumle" led off with a pretty single in the ninth, warming the mood to a double play to Barbeau who touched Brees' running to second and tossed out at first. Caproni lifted a sacrifice fly to the pitcher and all was over.

Back in the sixth Holland pulled a double play, holding Gering's grounders perfectly to touch out Lutzke and toss out Gering.

ORIOLES AND SAINTS' THIRD GAME TODAY

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 9.—Baltimore and St. Paul will meet their third game of the series, the count standing at two to nothing in favor of the local team.

The probability is that Jack Bentley of the Orioles and Charley Hall of the Saints will again face each other. This pair locked horns in the opening game Tuesday, and Bentley came through with colors flying, two home runs from the mound, being the main factor in Baltimore's victory.

FINAL SAMSON GAMES TO DRAW THOUSANDS

BATTERIES. Today—Samsons: Dumont, pitcher; Shook, catcher; Brewers: Wood, pitcher; Ulrich, catcher. Sunday—Samsons: Lathrop, pitcher; Shook, catcher; Brewers: Gering, pitcher; Ulrich, catcher.

When the hands of the clock touch the hour of 2:30 this afternoon and get around to that spot again Sunday, a couple of thousand fans will very likely see each game—and if they don't, they will miss something.

Dumont will hunt for the locals today. "Speeder" has come into his own in the past month or so and is going good right now. Sunday, Lathrop will take the mound and endeavor to add another victory to his already large string.

Delavan. — The Delavan High school football team played the fifth game at Springs gridiron Saturday afternoon. The officers for the coming year are: Bernard Mooney, captain; Albert Vaughn, coach; Oak Anna Fowler, treasurer; H. A. Melcher, manager.

Milwaukee, Oct. 9.—A new state bowling record was established in competition last night when the La Jolla 4-man team of the Milwaukee Business Men's league rolled 3,102 points. The previous state record, 3,120, was held by the Morgan-rotts since 1911.

ABE MARTIN ON THE WORLD'S BASEBALL SERIES

Cleveland, O., Oct. 8.—"All ball players look alike," said Lutzke, sportswriter of the Bloomer, "but I don't know a player from a frame. I don't know whether a run is earned or handed. I can't distinguish an error from a frame. I don't know whether a pitcher pitched a ball when nobody tried to hit him."

ever since Cicotte came across. I seem to have forgotten how to analyze a play—how to write a comprehensive report of a game. I don't know whether a run is earned or handed. I can't distinguish an error from a frame. I don't know whether a pitcher pitched a ball when nobody tried to hit him."

Continuing their fast bowling, the Rock River Machine took three games from Samson No. 2 Friday night and held their lead in the industrial league with six games won and none lost. The Wooten Mills went into second place when the Police failed to show up.

High score of the night, and of the league, was made by Sutherland with 220. This equals high mark for the season in the City league. Blank trailed him with 215. The American Express topped two games from the Daily Gazette.

FAIRY GRIDIRONERS OPEN UP SUNDAY

Fairbanks, Mo., Beloit, football stars, formerly the A. A. C. aggregation, will open their grid season at the Morse field Sunday afternoon when they kick-off at 2:30 o'clock to the strong St. Charles American Legion team of St. Charles, Ill. The Illinois crew were beaten by the A. A. C. last year, 21 to 0, when Beloit defensive half backs intercepted three would-be forward passes and Dutch Witte kicked the three goals.

Members of the Samson baseball club were banqueted at the Grand hotel Friday night by the Samson Employees association. Speeches were the order of the evening with entertainment provided by a special act from one of the theaters.

Speaker declared, "You know they had us down a few times during the race for the American league flag, but they could not keep us down. Brooklyn has us down now, but it cannot keep us down. As far as we are concerned, the series is just starting. I have every confidence that the series will be even after today's game. From then on we will keep our feet in front."

The Dodgers shared the confidence of Manager Wilbert Robinson that Cleveland is already beaten and will not prove dangerous.

"I confidently believe that we have the series as good as won," Manager Robinson said. "I am proud of my pitchers and the club as a whole. I have the edge with two games to our credit and I intend to retain it. Never before has a team lost two of the first games and won the title."

THE NASH SIX

That is because motor car buyers are scrutinizing and comparing automobile values now as they have not done for years.

A market such as this always brings into sharp relief values that are really sound.

It shows which cars are overpriced and which cars are worth every dollar asked for them.

This process of comparison is emphasizing anew the superiority of Nash Six value.

It is making plain just how low priced the Nash Six is in comparison with those cars which even approximate it in cost.
